Alright, so you don't actually need to be libertarian to be our advisor, we're mainly just looking for someone interested in advising.

The position entails almost no commitments. If you're politically active, you can attend meetings, events, and discussions if you'd like, but we're mostly asking because Campus Life requires an advisor on the form in order to become a student org.

Mitchell,

I'm not apposed to it. I just have two questions:

- 1.) Do I absolutely need to be a libertarian to be the advisor for this group? (I'm sort of a lost soul, as I think you've gathered through our conversations)
- 2.) What do I need to do/what does the position(?) entail?

Subject: Libertarian Club Advisor

Dear Mr. Slembariski,

A few days ago, I asked if you would be interested in being an advisor for the MSOE Libertarian Club, and you didn't seem completely opposed. We are currently seeking a faculty advisor, and I figured I would ask you if you would be interested in such a position.

We pretty much intend to only talk online occasionally and run the occasional event, we don't really intend to do much that requires any form of advisor, and you can be as involved or not as you would like. We just want an official student org to spread awareness about libertarians, and to let students talk politics and the news.

I'm not sure if you need more details or not, but I also cc'ed our president onto this email. We're just looking for an advisor as the next step to register as an alternative student org to the "big political party" student orgs out there.

Thank you for considering being our advisor.

See you Wednesday!

Mitchell Hendricks
